

Bertrand's Heroic Story

A Success Story on Empowering Champions to End Violence against Women and Girls

BHF Advocacy Workshop On Empowering Champions to End Violence Against Women and Girls

Bertrand, a dedicated lecturer, became impassioned about addressing the alarming rate of violence against women and girls. Motivated to make a meaningful impact, he decided to take action.

Bertrand enrolled in the Belie Health Foundation's advocacy workshop focused on empowering champions to end violence against women. This was a program funded by the African Union, UNICEF and the Spotlight Initiative. Through this training, Bertrand equipped himself with the knowledge and skills necessary to effect change.

Armed with newfound insights and a determination to make a difference, Bertrand returned to his community.

As a lecturer, he recognized the influence he held in shaping minds and fostering a safe environment.

Upon continuous interaction, Bertrand notices one of his female students, Sarah (name changed) who seemed to bear the heavy weight of a silent struggle.

Instinctively, Bertrand reached out to her, offering support and creating a space where she felt comfortable sharing her experiences.

To his dismay, Bertrand learned that Sarah had been enduring years of violence in silence. Empathizing with her plight, he gently encouraged her to speak out and seek help.

Recognizing the importance of professional intervention, Bertrand facilitated her connection with our reputable organization; Belie Health Foundation specialized in supporting victims of violence.

Our organization, impressed by Bertrand's dedication and Sarah's resilience, is currently providing comprehensive assistance to her. She is receiving psychosocial support and counseling and resources to rebuild her life

Bertrand continues to support her academically, ensuring she has the necessary accommodations to cope with the aftermath of the trauma.
